PRESIDENT STEVENS SENDS CURT REPLY

Tells Business People James River Schedule Will Not Be Changed.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE ACTS

Committee Named to Confer with Corporation Commission. Shippers Indignant.

The change of schedule on the James River Division of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway by which the mail train which heretofore left Richmond at 10 o'clock in the morning now leaves at 11:45, and thereby throws out of kilter all of the rural free delivery routes and all of the star routes by which Richmond business men get in touch with the country merchants of six or seven counties, is being criticized on all sides.

The article on the subject in Sunday's Times-Dispatch attracted not a little attention in business circles, and yesterday the Chamber of Commerce committee on inland trade took the matter up and appointed a committee to confer with the State Corporation Commission to see if there can be found a remedy for the trouble.

President Stevens heard from Traffic Manager Goodman, of the Chamber of Commerce, had already conferred with Chesapeake and Ohio officials in regard to the matter, and being informed that President Stevens was the only man to see, he wired Mr. Stevens before the latter's departure from New York for Switzerland, and the reply of the president was to the effect that "there was nothing doing."

President Stevens' letter, written from New York in reply to Mr. Goodman, admitted that the schedule was made in the interest of the retail trade of other points on the line, regardless of the jobbing or other interest of Richmond, and in something of a curt way said the schedule could not be changed.

At the committee meeting yesterday afternoon the idea prevailed that President Stevens' reply to the traffic manager cut off all further negotiations with Chesapeake and Ohio officials, and hence the only thing to do is to appeal to a higher authority—the State Corporation Commission.

E. S. Goodman and John C. Freeman were appointed on this committee, and they will probably have a conference with members of the Corporation Commission this morning.

Won't Stand for It. E. P. Burgess, of Fork Union, was in the city yesterday, having made a special trip to look the situation over and see if something cannot be done.

To change this remarkable schedule and give the people the mail facilities they have heretofore had and to which they are entitled. He got no satisfaction at the Chesapeake and Ohio officials, and then called on the postal officials at a view of getting the star routes that branch out from Brems Bluff to wait for Chesapeake and Ohio train No. 2. In post-office circles Mr. Burgess gathered an impression that the government will not submit to this arbitrary change of schedule on the part of the railway officials, but at the same time it was a well known fact that the government goes slowly and makes thorough investigation before taking decided or drastic steps. Uncle Sam may in time bring the railway folk to their proper knitting, but that will take time, and during that time the trade of Richmond is suffering not a little in the territory affected by this curious business.

The following special to The Times-Dispatch explains itself:

Fork Union, Va., June 6.—The article in the Industrial Section of The Times-Dispatch of Sunday, concerning the indignation of the people of Pluvanna and other counties over the arbitrary change of the schedule of train No. 2 on the James River Division of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway, is but a faint picture of the indignation that is felt in the neighborhood of Fork Union.

It is likely that the people in this immediate section are greater sufferers than those mentioned in the account from Columbia. The mail comes to Fork Union and other star route points from Brems Bluff, and the star route men must needs leave that station under a schedule made by the Post-Office Department in good faith. It was made on the basis of the schedule of No. 2. Without notice and without consultation of the business men of the Chesapeake and Ohio made the change in the schedule, which throws No. 2 at Brems Bluff about a half hour after the star route man has left for Fork Union and other points in "old Pluvanna."

The result is that while Fork Union is only four and a half miles from Brems Bluff, the people here cannot get their mail from Richmond until 2 P. M. the day after it was placed in the mail at Brems Bluff. An automobile service would be a great and imposing Chesapeake and Ohio Railway mail service to this part of the country just about thirty-two hours.

Twenty-Four Hours Old. The mail that left Richmond for Fork Union this morning, for instance, will reach Brems Bluff about 2 P. M. The star route man having left a little after 1 o'clock, that mail for Fork Union and other points will lie in the post-office or the station at Brems Bluff until twenty-four hours, subject to the dangers of burglary, fire, etc. Remain there, mind you, within less than five miles of the owners of that mail, and it can't be moved a peg until it is twenty-four hours old.

Great Indignation. Talk about indignation, why, that which The Times-Dispatch says is felt by the merchants and other people of Goodland, Cumberland, Albemarle, Buckingham and other counties is not a patching to that which stirs the breasts of the business folks in this part of Pluvanna.

The people, especially the merchants and bank officials who have close business relations with Richmond, are just up in arms about it. Who are the people kicking? Some of them are Captain C. G. Sheard, B. A. Burgess, merchant and bank president; B. B. Whitehurst, bank cashier; W. P. Sheard, commissioner of the revenue; E. S. Ligon, manager of the Fork Union Academy; E. D. Weaver, merchant; George Bashaw, E. P. Burgess, W. C. Joyner and others.

There is talk of a public meeting and the appointment of a committee to go to Richmond and make an appeal to the postal authorities and the State Corporation Commission. Many of these powers will listen to the complaints of the people if the Chesapeake and Ohio officials will not.

POLICE BREAK UP HIS MONKEY SHOW

Prussian Let People Throw Three Balls at Simian's Head for Half a Dime.

GOT BRUTAL PUNISHMENT

Complaint From Citizens Results in Arrest of Men Who Operated Game.

When Joe Johnson came to Richmond, he staked a claim at Idlewood Park and invited the public to throw baseballs at his monkey's head stuck through a hole in the canvas. He had no idea the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals would interfere with his business.

For several days and night the monkey stuck his face through the hole in the curtain and young America chucked baseballs at him. Some times the monkey would dodge the balls and then some times he would get smashed in the nose. "Come right up, gentlemen, and try your luck. Hit the monkey. Three balls for 5 cents." This is the way Joe got the people to buy balls and throw at the monkey. Usually a big negro sits behind the canvas and sticks his elbow face through the hole and dares the throwers to hit him. Joe wanted a novel show, and he purchased a monkey.

Humane People Rebel. Women and men visited Idlewood Park Saturday night and saw the crowd throwing balls at the monkey's head. They were shocked. One husky man struck the monkey fair in the face with a big hard ball.

The little animal ducked behind the curtain with a shriek of pain. Humane people rebelled at such cruelty. They determined to have the law on Johnson. Therefore, they wrote several letters to Emmett Taylor, agent for the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, protesting at the brutality of the show.

Swearing out a warrant for Johnson last night, Mr. Taylor called on Sergeant Kerse at the Second Police Station to send an officer to Idlewood Park and assist him in arresting Johnson. Mounted Officer Krouse and Mr. Taylor proceeded to the park and arrested Johnson on a charge of cruelty to animals. The monkey show was broken up.

According to Johnson, who was bailed in the sum of $100 for his appearance in Police Court this morning, he has traveled "all over the world with his monkey," but he has never been arrested before for allowing people to throw baseballs at his head. Johnson said he was born in Prussia, but for several years has been touring the United States.

NEW MAIL DEVICE

Railroads Asked to Install One to Catch Mail Pouches.

Railroads in Virginia have been requested by the United States government to install on all mail cars a patent device invented by a man in Iowa for catching and delivering pouches at the same time. It is claimed by the inventor, and has been recognized by the government, that there is slight possibility of mail bags being ground to pieces under the wheels of the train, when the new equipment is in use.

Chief Clerk Elam, of the Railway Mail Service, whose office is in the Federal building, made yesterday afternoon that one railroad has already installed the new arrangement, and he expects others will follow soon.

SUPERVISORS TO DISCUSS BRIDGE QUESTION TO-DAY

The Board of Supervisors of Henrico county will meet at noon to-day to decide one of the largest dockets in several months.

One of the chief items of postponed business to be transacted will be the construction of a bridge across the James River in Tuckahoe District. Citizens of the western portion of the county have put in a petition for the bridge and plans for one have been submitted. There is, however, a great objection to the bridge, besides its actual cost to the county, among the real estate dealers.

It is not believed that the county is ready to build the bridge now, and many of the supervisors believe that the same amount of money put in roads throughout the county will do the county a great deal more good.

APPEAL IS DENIED THREE MURDERERS

Henry County Negro's Confession Has No Weight With Supreme Court.

EXCURSION FROM DRY STATE

Two Criminal Cases Decided, in One of Which Writ Is Granted.

Governor Mann's respite last week to the three Henry county negroes condemned to death for murder, came just in time for the extension of their lives, for on yesterday the Supreme Court refused to grant a writ of error to the judgment of the Circuit Court. The respite was granted for the purpose of allowing the court of last resort to pass upon the case. They were to have been electrocuted June 17, the date being postponed to August 12.

The court says that the judgment "is plainly right." The fact that North Carolina is a dry State is given as a cause for the denial of the writ. The three condemned men, Joseph Hairston, Thomas Bailey and John Eccles, declare that they were not drunk. An excursion was run from Winston-Salem to Roanoke in March, and while in the wet city the whole bunch became very drunk. They assert that they did not know anything about the killing until the next morning. It occurred on the train.

No attention whatever is paid to the "confession" of John Eccles, made since the trial, and forwarded to the Governor with the petition for clemency. A man said that Hairston and Bailey were innocent and that his part was taken in self-defense. Walter Joyce, who escaped, and is still at large, cut the throat of Sidney Wood, according to Eccles.

Was a Peacemaker. It appears that Wood was trying to quiet the general drunken row.

It is presumed that after commutation will be continued before the Governor on the strength of Eccles' confession. Two other criminal matters were argued by the court, both being cases where the prisoner is accused of horrible crimes on Hittie Island. The case of T. C. Cates, from the Hustings Court of the city of Portsmouth, a writ of error is granted. Cates was fired twice, being given twelve years the first time and fifteen the second. His claim, upon which a writ of error was allowed, was that he was convicted of an attempt on the second trial and of the crime on the first. It would seem that the man is flirting with death in the new trial.

In the new trial, that of Earle A. Vandye, of Elizabeth City county, a writ of error was refused. He was given eighteen years, Vandye is a white man, and his victim, who died, was a little colored girl.

FOUGHT AT DANCE

Somebody Blew Out the Lights and Then John Cole, Carving Regan.

John Cole, carving Regan, with cutting and stabbing Albert School at a dance Monday night, was arrested yesterday by C. E. Burch and brought to the Henrico county jail. A few minutes after his arrest Cole was released on bail and taken to the City Home, where his wounds might be properly treated.

While at the jail Cole secured a warrant against Albert School, charging him with cutting him. School is in his home in Henrico county, and half a dozen had stabs and cuts about his body, and there is grave danger of his wounds proving fatal.

A remarkable thing about the cutting affair is that neither man knows who cut him or whom he cut. It seems that while the fight was in progress somebody blew out the lights and each man grabbed a knife and that they fell off of each other. Both confesse to having fought with somebody in the dark, but that is as far as their knowledge goes.

While the boys were badly cut and stabbed, and although Cole is released on bail until June 11, it is doubtful whether either will be physically able to appear on that date.

BUYER OF FURNACE COMES ON AHEAD

Gets His Money Back, Released From Debt and Has the Furnace.

CASES IN SUPREME COURT

Three Writs of Error Allowed, While Three Are Refused.

Perhaps the first case on record in which a purchaser of a furnace got even with the man who sold him the thing is recorded in a suit in which the Supreme Court yesterday refused to grant a writ of error. The jury in this trial found a verdict for the defendant, who was the purchaser, in an amount equal to the value of the whole thing, leaving the sellers up a tree.

In two other civil cases writs were refused, while in three they were allowed. The furnace case makes amusing reading, although it was doubtless anything but funny to any of the participants. The complainants in both cases were F. J. Doherty and C. M. Casey, doing business as Doherty & Casey. Some of the names are not surprising that they should have found a purchaser in F. J. Flaherty. To him they sold a furnace which was guaranteed to do certain things, such as heat his house in a proper manner. He paid part of the purchase price.

Flaherty pleaded a set-off in damages and discomforts caused by the object which he had purchased, and further claimed that the furnace had not come up to the advance notices. Flaherty, some of whose members had bought furnaces during the course of their natural lives, found a verdict against Flaherty for about $120, the balance he owed, but at the same time found a verdict against Doherty & Casey for an amount equal to the original sale price of the machine.

They were very much aggrieved at this. They asked the Supreme Court what they were supposed to get out of it, since they were minus one furnace and had to pay for another. In the meantime the furnace is in Flaherty's house, and it is supposed he can get more damages if they disturb him by taking it out. The Supreme Court couldn't see what it could do about it.

Michelson Brothers drew a blank in their appeal from a decision in a suit which they had brought against Chas. Wankler's heirs at law. The property was a receiver's hands, and the question was one of jurisdiction in a matter in which the sheriff was appointed administrator of an estate.

Suit for Damages

Viola Davis, a colored girl, was refused a writ of error from a decision of the Circuit Court of Mecklenburg county. She sued the Southern Railway for damages, and was given $1,000, subject to a decision on a demurrer. This demurrer was sustained.

The child had been sent to the post-office at Union Level. While crossing a railroad track she was run down by an engine running backward and badly injured.

Fred Schwab was granted a writ of error in his case against the Washington Luna Park Company, from the Circuit Court of Alexandria county. Schwab ran an aerial swing for the defendant company. Three trolleys slipped off at once, and while trying to arrange matters his foot was caught in cogs, with the result that he lost his foot and part of his leg above the ankle. Upon the trial of his suit the court was divided, and a demurrer produced by the defendant.

The claim was made that he was not supposed to fix matters if all three trolleys slipped off at once, but in such a case it was his duty to hunt up the electrician. Schwab said he did not see that the trolley was about to do, while women were swinging high in the air in the darkness.

Construction of Will. In the case of Ellen D. Goldsborough and Mary M. Boyd against Euphan Washington and others, a writ of error was granted to a judgment of the Circuit Court of Mathews county. The whole question is over the construction of the will of William H. Roy, who died possessed of considerable property. It is contended that it was his intent to provide equally for his two sets of children by different marriages, but that he has failed to do so practically. While the two elder children, it is argued, took their absolute estate, that of the others is undetermined and must remain so until at least two of them die.

The City National Bank of Roanoke got a writ from a decision of the Circuit Court of Henry county. The bank, it appears, had purchased a note for $800, with interest, subject to two credits of $66 each, with a number of indorsers. The defense was that these signatures had been procured by fraudulent representations of the payee, the payee, a judgment for the defendant was set aside as to two of them, H. B. Hundley and T. N. Barbour, on evidence tending to show that they had received considerations from the note.

INSURANCE MEN ELECT OFFICERS

Life Underwriters of Virginia Hold Eighteenth Annual Meeting.

The eighteenth annual meeting of the Life Underwriters' Association of Virginia was held at the Business Men's Club yesterday afternoon. Officers of the association were elected as follows: D. R. Midyette, Fidelity Mutual, president; T. A. Cary, Northwest Mutual, vice-president; T. Garnett Tabb, Travelers, second vice-president, and R. Jeter Jones, Metropolitan, secretary and treasurer.

Executive Committee—A. P. Wilmer, President, chairman; N. D. Sills, Sun Life, Canada, and G. W. Bahkne, Metropolitan.

N. D. Sills was elected a member of the national executive committee. President Midyette made a most interesting annual report, saying that the business of the life insurance industry is stupendous. About twenty-five billions of life insurance is in force in the United States. The companies in which it is carried have accumulated assets of over four billions of dollars, about three billions of the assets being held by legal and reserve companies, the general agents and managers of which the Virginia Association is composed.

All of the officers in making their reports referred to the harmony and good fellowship existing in the association, emphasizing the high plane on which the life insurance business in this city has been conducted.

President Midyette in concluding his report thanked his fellow-officers for the faithful and efficient manner in which their duties had been performed.

MANY GOOD JOBS

Civil Service Positions Offered Those Who Pass Examination.

Although Uncle Sam doesn't pay munificent salaries for persons who enter the classified civil service, those who desire may take examinations for several positions, ranging from domestic science teacher to bacteriologist in the Philippine service. Examinations will be held in the Federal building.

On June 8 examinations for an inorganic chemist for the Philippine service will be held. The salary has been fixed at $2,000 per year. One must know much technical information to successfully pass this examination.

On June 13-14, examinations will be held for the reclamation service. Examiners will receive $1,500 per year, while reclamation examiners will receive from $1,200 to $1,500. The subjects are many and the questions difficult.

Should one pass the examination for domestic science teacher, which will be held on June 29-30, and secure a position, the remuneration will be $600 per year.

Bacteriologists who succeed in passing the lengthy and rigid examination on June 8 may be given a position in the Philippine service at a salary of $2,000 per year.

Examinations regarding the various examinations may be had by communicating with the post-office authorities in Richmond.

BONE ISLAND FISHING

Party Reports Capture of a Fifteen-Pound Drum Last Week.

Fishermen returning from Bone Island yesterday reported the greatest fishing seen on the ocean side of the Eastern Shore in years. Every party that has gone to the ocean for sport within the past week has made almost record catches. The last party to return from Bone Island reported the capture of a fifteen-pound drum, besides a multitude of hogfish, kingfish and sea trout.

The shooting on the ocean beaches has about closed, the birds having left for the summer. The season will open again, however, in August, when the return, after sport with sedge hens will begin.

The fishing will last for several weeks yet, and several parties from Richmond are scheduled for a try-out on ocean water with the sea lines within the next two weeks.

REJECT BIDS FOR BUILDING AT FAIR

Council Committee Finds That They Are Excessive in Cost.

All bids and plans for the proposed administration building at the State Fair Grounds were rejected by the Council Committee on Grounds and Buildings last night as excessive in cost, and there now seems grave doubt whether the new building can be completed in time for the exhibition this fall.

When the committee had a competition for designs it accepted those of Scarborough & Howell, on the assurance of Mr. Howell that he had certain bids in his possession which showed that the building could be erected, architect's fees and all, within the appropriation of $45,000. Four bids were opened by the committee last night, including granolithic work, as follows: J. T. Wilson, $53,394; G. J. Hunt, $52,000; J. T. Nuckols, $52,746; A. M. Walkup, $57,850. The estimates do not include plumbing or electric work.

On the plumbing there were the following bids: Virginia Plumbing and Heating Company, $1,130; J. W. Sargent, $1,354; James E. Phillips & Co., $1,218. Mr. Howell forgot to bring the electric bids to the committee.

It was apparent, however, that even the lowest bidder, G. J. Hunt, when the extra and architect's fees were allowed for, was fully $10,000 in excess of the appropriation, and all the bids and the plans were rejected and checks ordered returned. Mr. Spillman, of the Fair Association, was most sarcastic in his references to Architect Howell and his assurances that he had bids for the building within the appropriation, and the committee referred the whole matter back to a subcommittee to confer with officials of the Fair Association.

NURSES' CLUB

Graduates of All Hospitals Forming Club for Advancement of Profession.

The graduate nurses of Richmond will meet this afternoon at 5 o'clock in the Virginia Hospital to hear the report of a committee appointed last week on the formation of a Graduate Nurses' Club for Richmond. Every graduate nurse in Richmond is eligible for membership.

The object of the club is simply for the advancement of the profession of the members. The promoters propose to form an organization which will be of real benefit to the nurses in the practice of their profession, and it is believed by them that the club idea will be welcomed by the nurses.

A meeting of the Alumni Association of the Virginia Hospital Training School will be held in the Virginia Hospital at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

ASSIGNED TO COMMITTEES

Councilmen from Washington Ward Receive Appearances.

In accordance with the new rules of the Council which enlarge the membership of several of the standing committees from 11 to 12, President Peters has assigned the following members from Washington Ward to committees, to take effect at once: Streets—Carter C. Jones; Grounds and Buildings—L. R. Brown; Water—B. A. Gill; Finance—W. B. Bradley; Light—W. W. Workman.

Assignments are to be made later to all vacancies on the Committees on Cemeteries and Electricity. The new rules do not enlarge the number of members from the upper branch, specifying that the larger committees shall consist of seven Councilmen and five Aldermen, instead of six Councilmen and five Aldermen. The assignments, Mr. Peters explains, are all of a temporary nature, as there will be a general rearrangement of the committees following the incoming of the new Council in September.
